Contents for ESQ, Volume 31, 1985

No. 1 (1st Quarter) No. 118 o.s.

Sargent Bush, Jr.

The End and Means in Walden:
Thoreau's Use of the Catechism 1

Susan K. Harris

Stoddard's The Morgesons:
A Contextual Evaluation 11

Frank D. Rashid

Emily Dickinson's Voice of Endings 23

Dana Brand

The Escape from Solipsism:
William James' Reformulation of
Emerson and Whitman 38

John Carlos Rowe

Deconstructing America: Recent Approaches to Nineteenth-Century Literature and Culture 49

No. 2 (2nd Quarter) No. 119 o.s.

Richard J. Schneider

Thoreau and Nineteenth-Century
American Landscape Painting 67

E. Miller Budick

The Immortalizing Power of Imagination:
A Reading of Whittier's Snow-Bound 89

P. L. Hirsch

Melville's Ambivalence toward the Writer's "Wizardry": Allusions to Theurgic Magic in The Confidence-Man 100

Tenney Nathanson

Whitman's Tropes of Light and Flood: Language and Representation in the Early Editions of Leaves of Grass 116

No. 3 (3rd Quarter) No. 120 o.s.

John Tallmadge

"Ktaadn": Thoreau in the Wilderness of Words 137

Richard A. Grusin

"Monadnoc": Emerson's Quotidian Apocalypse 149

Martin K. Doudna

Hawthorne's Pandora, Milton's Eve, and the Fortunate Fall 164

Craig Howes

Burke, Poe, and "Usher": The Sublime and Rising Woman 173

Critical Review

Robert Sattelmeyer

Study Nature and Know Thyself: Recent Thoreau Criticism 190

No. 4 (4th Quarter) No. 121 o.s.

Robert M. Greenberg

Shooting the Gulf: Emerson's Sense of Experience 211

Mark Patterson

Emerson, Napoleon, and the Concept of the Representative 230

Henry Golemba

The Voices of Walden 243

Natalie Cole Michta

"Plucked up out of a Mystery":
Archetypal Resonance
in Hawthorne's Marble Faun 252

Gayle L. Smith

The Word and the Thing:
Moby-Dick and the Limits of Language 260

Critical Review

John Gatta

The Making of Walt Whitman 272